For fun in learning!

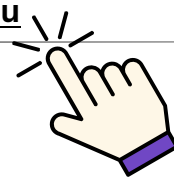

We are proud to present the ECCE LUDUS project, a European project envisioning the support for teachers and educators to keep STEAM learning fun and motivating, and improve inclusion in formal and informal learning.

Who are we?

The partners behind the ECCE LUDUS project come from various European countries and are working together to develop comprehensive but adaptable learning tools that can be used in all EU countries. For more information on the partners, explore our website:

STEAM signifies subjects concerning science, technology, engineering, the arts, and mathematics.
